What does your "ending" reveal about you?

(your preferences, your ideals, how you view things in the moment)

Literature reveals our understanding of ourselves, our beliefs, what we hold valuable, what we like and dislike, whether we are hopeful as people, or feel discouraged... When we connect with literature, and we look into HOW we connect, it should help us discover things about ourselves, perhaps even clarifying our beliefs in things. It is inherently a reflective moment.
